

POLSON MUSEUM, HOQUIAM, WASHINGTON
SASQUATCH REVEALED EXHIBIT
OCTOBER 10, 2015

With John Larson - Museum Administrator.

First thing seen as you enter the room.

Sasquatch Living
Painting by Jan Brummert 2014
Sasquatch is a Native American legend. The legend is based on a story told by the people of the Pacific Northwest. The story says that a man named "Sasquatch" lived in the mountains of the Pacific Northwest. He was a large, hairy man who lived in the mountains. He was a very strong man and he was very brave. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man.

Painting by Jan Brummert of a Sasquatch who was living in the Pacific Northwest. The legend is based on a story told by the people of the Pacific Northwest. The story says that a man named "Sasquatch" lived in the mountains of the Pacific Northwest. He was a large, hairy man who lived in the mountains. He was a very strong man and he was very brave. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man. He was a very good man and he was a very kind man.

Television set-up showing a sasquatch documentary with the P/G film and so forth.

